

Crunchy, Not Sweet

Carnivore, Herbivore, and Omnivore Lesson

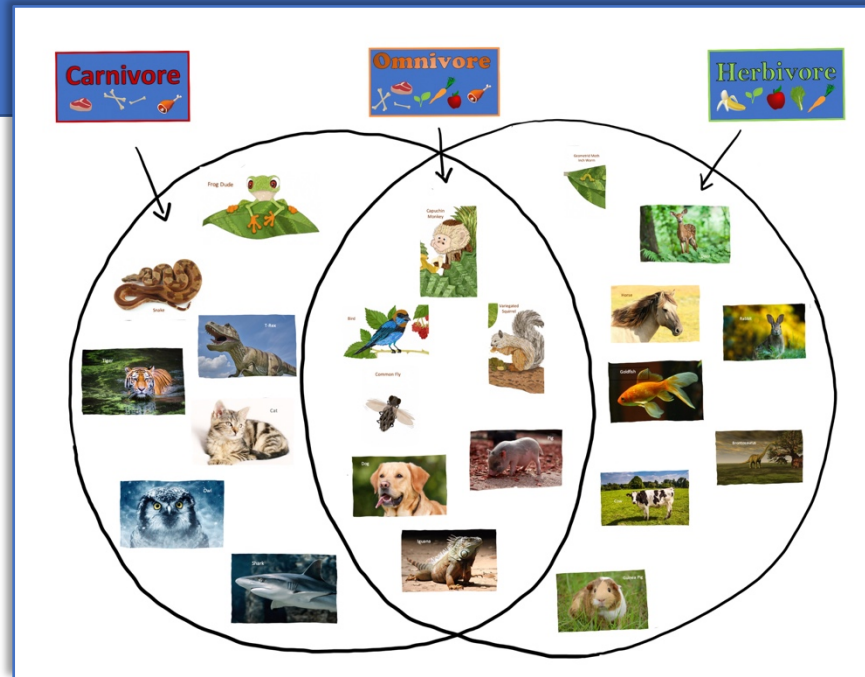

Carnivore, Herbivore, and Omnivore (K-2)

Learning Objective: Students will be able to categorize animals into carnivores, herbivores, or omnivores.

Materials:

- Book: Crunchy, Not Sweet by Amy Ward
- Illustrations from Crunchy, Not Sweet, print and cut out below
- Animal photos, print and cut out below

- Read Crunchy, Not Sweet.
- Draw a large Venn Diagram on the board. See below. Use labels provided to label each section.
- Ask the question: Who do you think Little Frog Dude doesn't eat fruit or nuts? (Who might say he doesn't like them. Response: Little Frog Dude is a CARNIVORE.) Put Little Frog Dude in the carnivore circle.
- Some animals only eat fish, vegetables and plants. They are called herbivores. Do you know any animals in the story that are herbivores? The inchworm.
- Some animals eat both. They are called omnivores. Which animals from the story do you think are omnivores? Monkey, bird, squirrel, and fly.
- Computer Connection: As a class or in groups, use a search engine (such as Google) to look up the other animals.
